West Covina Police Officer Shot, Identified Suspect at Large

By George Ogden

WEST COVINA - Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department Homicide Bureau detectives are assisting West Covina Police Department with the investigation of an officer-involved shooting where a West Covina Police officer was shot. It is believed that the suspect may have been hit by the officer returning fire.

The Assembly concurrently passed ACR 152, a resolution proclaiming California Holocaust Memorial Week urging Californians to observe these days of remembrance for the victims of the Holocaust.

"We owe it to the survivors of the Holocaust and their families to confer and immortalize for each generation the "never again" refrain, said Assemblywoman Chang. "We do that in part by honoring those who survived and remembering those who did not. I am grateful to step back from the day-to-day politics and policy of the legislature and recognize these incredible individuals.'

David Yungman attends a synagogue that serves both Assembly Districts 55 (Chang) and 57 (Calderon). His Mother Gizela Yungman and her three sisters survived and were liberated by the Allies in 1945. David's father, Nathan Yungman (Originally Jungmann) was born in Bielsko, Poland in 1923 to a secular Jewish Family. Nathan was enslaved and forced to work in horrific labor camps in Germany. Nathan and a fellow inmate escaped together and were later helped by a German Lutheran family who hid them. In 1974 Nathan and his family immigrated to the Unites States and later became a United States citizen. David's Motherin-law Alice Babroff and her mother were released from a Nazi labor camp due to an uncle who had connections in Germany that would accept bribes.

Yungman's family eventually became proud American citizens and raised their families in Southern California.

Presented by The Humana Foundation, Playful City USA is a national program advocating for local policies that increase play opportunities for children and is a key platform in combating the play deficit.

KaBOOM!, the national nonprofit organization dedicated to saving play, created Playful City USA in 2007 to help local governments address the play deficit and it is through mayors, city council members, parks and recreation departments, school districts and community leaders that the program succeeds in benefitting children.

"The Azusa City Council is delighted that KaBOOM! has selected our city as a recipient for this honor," said Azusa Mayor, Joseph R. Rocha. "As a council, we all believe that creative play and positive socialization skills

With these esteemed leaders, and our friends and partners across the country, we continue to prioritize play for all kids."

Homelessness Requires Treatment, Not Just Housing

LOS ANGELES COUNTY

— In opposing the motion by the Board of Supervisors to pursue additional taxes for homeless funding, Supervisor Michael D. Antonovich said, "Homelessness involves not just one factor. The homeless population is divided into four different groups:

- drug addicts
- alcoholics
- · mentally ill; and
- · the economically deprived.

Of those four, only the economically deprived will benefit from housing and job training to become productive citizens. But for the other three (those with mental health and substance abuse problems), housing is not a cure. Individuals who have drug and alcohol problems need mandated rehabilitation, and the mentally ill need more than 3 days of mental health treatment. In the program I initiated at the MTA, where the bus drivers and rail conductors report those who are mentally ill on the bus stops or at the train stations, over 95 percent of those refuse housing or assistance.

To address this long-standing challenge faced by mental health and law enforcement staff, Supervisor Antonovich authored a motion, passed unanimously by the Board of Supervisors, directing the County CEO, County Counsel, and the Health Agency to evaluate federal and state laws that prevent requiring mental health treatment and mandated alcohol-drug abuse rehabilitation, and to report back to the Board in 30 days with their recommendations."

Prioritizing Play for Children: Non-Profit | Assessor Prang Warns New Homeowners On Misleading Services Offered For A Fee

LOS ANGELES - Los Angeles County Assessor Jeffrey Prang, Los Angeles County Registrar-Recorder/County Clerk Dean Logan, and Director of the Department of Consumer and Business Affairs Brian J. Stiger are collaborating to remind new homeowners to be wary of solicitations from private companies offering free government services for hefty fees.

LOS ANGELES COUNTY

Although copies of deeds and applications for property tax exemptions are offered at a minimal cost or free from government offices, new homeowners often receive commercial solicitations to pay for those services. The official-looking mailings frequently include offers to help find property-related information for taxpayers for a fee.

"New property owners might assume that these letters come from a government agency and end up paying for a free service," said Assessor Jeffrey Prang.

"This deceptive practice under- offer. mines the services the County already provides for free. Even I have received those solicitations after recently moving into a new home.

Baldwin Park Graduation Rates Soar to Record Highs in 2014-15

BALDWIN PARK - Baldwin Park Unified raised its graduation rate to an all-time high of 93.9 percent in 2014-15, closing the achievement gap for the District's significant populations of Hispanic and socio-economically disadvantaged students.

The graduation rate for Hispanics mirrored the District's overall figure of 93.9 percent while students from low-income households did even better, topping out at 94.1 percent. The rate for English learners also improved significantly, climbing from 85.6 percent in 2013-14 to 90.3 percent.

Rates soared to 100 percent for the District's small populations of migrant, African American, Pacific Islander, Filipino and White students - with numbers for African Americans leaping by more than 20 percentage points. "We are immensely proud of this achievement," Superintendent Froilan N. Mendoza said. "It is a testament to the dedication of our talented cadre of teachers and staff and to the hard work of our students to achieve their best."

The rates are for a four-year cohort of students who enrolled in high school as freshmen in 2011-12. This is the sixth year California has used the method for measuring graduation rates, aided by a data system that tracks students when they switch schools, drop out or continue their education without graduating. The federal government now uses a similar four-year cohort model.

California's overall graduation rate has risen dramatically since 2009-10, peaking this year at 82.3 percent, up from 74.7 percent. Baldwin Park Unified's graduation rate started much higher – at 88 percent – and the District consistently outperforms the state's rate.

Mendoza credits the improvement to a series of District initiatives designed to boost student outcomes. Teachers meet regularly in forums where they can review student performance data and collaborate on ways to refine lesson approaches.

Classes emphasize projectbased learning, allowing students to apply theoretical knowledge to real-world situations. The approach works hand in hand with Baldwin Park Unified's focus on critical thinking, student collaboration, communication and creativity.

Finally, teachers, administrators and staff stress the importance of planning for college, careers and achieving life goals, helping students to deepen their motivation to succeed.

"These results really help to validate our continuing focus on avenues to student success," Board of Education President Christina Lucero said. "We have an extraordinary team in place at Baldwin Park Unified, strongly focused on helping students prepare for their futures."

Governor Signs Aliso Canyon Urgency Legislation into Law

SACRAMENTO - California Governor Jerry Brown took action to sign urgency legislation authored by Senator Fran Pavley (D-Sherman Oaks) and Principal Co-Author Bob Huff (R-San Dimas). SB 380 addresses a now plugged natural gas leak at the Aliso Canyon gas storage facility, and seeks to implement safeguards so that future leaks can be prevented. Because it is urgency legislation, it will take effect immediately

"Public safety is government's first priority," said Senator Huff. "Aliso Canyon must never again pose a risk to public health or safety. This bill strikes a balance between maintaining energy reliability in the region and safety."

SB 380 requires that a rigorous testing protocol developed by scientists at the U.S. Department of Energy's National Labofore operations can resume at the site of a massive gas leak. Over a period of four months before it was finally plugged in late February, the leak forced the relocation of more than 8,000 families and spewed nearly 100,000 metric tons of methane into the atmosphere. The Aliso Canyon natural gas storage facility includes approximately 115 wells, of which 108 are gas storage wells. Of those, 39 were originally drilled in 1954 or earlier. The gas storage facility is the largest gas storage reservoir in the western U.S., holding up to 86 billion cubic feet of natural gas, and provides service to residences, businesses, and electric utilities from Fresno to the Mexican bor-

But we can, and must ensure that as we use natural gas as a foundational energy source in our state, and it cannot come at the expense of public safety. Trust Hillary? Take Two

A while back I filed a column in which I asked whether Hillary could be trusted.

The responders ran the gamut. Most of those I heard from were solid in their support of Hillary. And then there were the very angry who would support Satan before they would vote for Hillary. Here is a paragraph I received comparing Bill and Hillary to the characters in Netflix's, "The House of Cards.

The Clintons are the consummate political chancers, all the while style overwhelming substance, ruthlessness eclipsing truthfulness, and political expediency supplanting policy integrity. Occupying their own 'house of cards' is a long, yet not so illustrious history of deception, corruption, duplicity, careerist opportunism, avarice, malice, war-mongering, hubris, incompetence, arrogance, media manipulation, venality, hypocrisy, influence touting, and everything in between that the ugly, sleazy side of politics has

Wow! I could never vote for anyone I believed to be that totally rotten!

And then there were the responders who honestly supported Bernie and were unhappy that so many of the rest of us believed in what he had to say, but for a variety of reasons did not think he was electable or was not the best qualified candidate.

Many of the responses were struggling with the decision as to whether they could in good conscience support Hillary. Since the publication of that piece I have asked a pretty solid group of people about their feelings regarding Hillary. Summing up the majority of those conversations yields something like this:

CB. What is your feeling about

Response. I suppose I'll vote for her, but there are things about her I don't like.

CB. Can you tell me what they

R. She is dishonest. CB. Give me a couple of specifics about her dishonesty. R. When she was Secretary of State she lied about one of the countries she had visited, and she didn't tell the truth about Libya. CB. Can you give any specifics about those events, or what she did that was dishonest? And where did you hear about them? R. I think I heard a lot of talk about it-or maybe I read it somewhere.

CB. Anything else?

R. Well, there is all that stuff about the e-mails.

CB. Any specifics?

R. I just have heard a lot of people talk about how she could not be trusted.

CB. Do you have any feeling about how she comes off other than you have heard that she is

R. She seems cold, not the warm friendly person I would like to sit down and have coffee with. Can't see myself warming up to

I continue to believe—and my recent conversations support the conclusion—that for many years there has been political capital to be made in continually whispering that Hillary cannot be trusted. This is the same tactic used by those passing around the rumor that Obama's birth certificate is a fake, or that there is no such thing as global warming. What is the evidence for Hillary's duplicity? Only that the accusation continues to be passed around, so there must be some truth in it.

So while I find the sturdy support for Bernie compelling, I'm not willing to take the risk involved in backing him, given the drift to the right of the American electorate—even if there are present polls that say he would do better against Trump than would Hillary. My hope is that Bernie will do whatever he can to encourage massive numbers of his followers to follow him in working for a Democrat victory in November. Too much is at stake should we elect a buffoon. I will support Hillary and the Democratic ticket. While the alternative to opt for a third party candidate or to write in Bernie's name remains a temptation, so much is riding on this election. I would rather be safe than righ-

Voter Fraud Or A Few Ooopsi Daisies

By Lois M. Shade

Former Mayor of Glendora

No voter pamphlet for me again in the Saturday mail. Everyone I've talked to in West Covina, some in Covina and many in Glendora have all received their voter pamphlet with all the candidates and their office they hope to be elected to, or at least qualify for the run-off in the November election. And, where am I suppose to go to vote?

My neighbors have received their absentee ballots and they have asked me questions about recommendations and some other questions related to the June Primary. My answer: What are you talking about? My pamphlet hasn't arrived yet. I'm lost!

Finally realizing my voter pamphlet had been misdirected somehow, I went online to find the phone number for the L.A. County Registrar of Voters, got the phone number and decided to call to ask questions to resolve the problem. After 45 minutes listening to elevator music, I hung up.

Next day, I went online again to see what the other options were before the primary came and went without me. I was confronted with an assortment of boxes giving me many, options. After trying a few, I found the right choice and was at least able to determine where I would be voting, I thought.

I ended up going into the first big blue encircled box that said, CURRENT ELECTIONS, which seemed relevant to me in my search to find my voting location.

And, sure enough, scrolling down, I located FIND YOUR DISTRICT. I clicked on what seemed to be one of the solutions to my problem. The next page asked for district type and I chose Assembly. Next request was DIS-TRICT and I clicked on the number 48, for 48th Assembly District. Next request was SUB DIS-TRICT. This section wouldn't function. There were three choices below I needed to choose from - Online Maps, Access PDF Precinct Map Book, or download the whole book.

I decided to skip sub district and click a go to button that gave me a page of Adobe software choices with the message: Select any of the applications below to download a free trial. Or sign up for your free trial of Creative Cloud to get free access to all of these applications, mobile apps, web storage, and more. The problem with free trials is they end up not being free and you end up with a constant intrusion as you are working on your computer asking you to sign up to buy the software. Having made that download choice once before, I can tell you it is a real hassle to get rid of that pop up. And, I'm not real sold on those computer clouds for storage yet.

I canceled that action and decided to try one of the others in the assortment of blue encircled boxes. In the third large box I found FIND YOUR POLLING PLACE. Something once again that seemed relevant to my cause of action more so than the other option. I clicked on that box and went to the next page, filled in the little boxes with my street number and street and what do you know ... up popped an assortment of the same streets with the

There it was. My polling place, same place it always is, and below that my voter pamphlet. All very easy I guess if you know which buttons to push.

If you don't have a computer to do all this button pushing on, you can call the Registrar's 800number, push 2, and answer the questions the phone robot asks. You will be able to achieve the same result it took me two days to achieve: Location of your polling place. Beware: One question this robot does ask is date of birth, an almost subliminal attack to make you acknowledge why you didn't take the computer online route and instead used the old fashion telephone methodol-precinct workers will ask who I am. They have always asked to see my voter pamphlet with my name and address on it to certify I am really who I say I am. My pamphlet, now missing, isn't available for me to use for I.D. I guess I could request to cast a provisional ballot until they are able to certify who I am and a registered voter. Or maybe just show them my driver's license with my address indicating I live right around the corner.

On a more serious note, the Republican Central Committee members operating out of the Republican Center in Covina have been contacted by numerous Republicans in the area who have also not received their pamphlets and who have discovered Republican family members are signed up to vote as a Democrat.

Doesn't sound like a big Ooopsi Daisy to me but will check and find out.

Glendora Students Explore STEM Fields With Help Of Citrus College

by Dr. Patricia A. Rasmussen, Clerk/Secretary Citrus Community College District Board of Trustees

Elementary school students from Glendora Unified School District recently presented posters showcasing their scientific work during a symposium hosted at Citrus College. The 26 fifth graders were members of the 2015-2016 Junior Rocket Owls, a year-long outreach program designed and facilitated by faculty and students from the Citrus College physics department. The participants were selected by the principals of their respective schools, giving them the opportunity to learn physics and mathematics concepts in a fun and creative atmosphere.

Beginning in September 2015, the Junior Rocket Owls met every month to work in teams under the leadership of rocketrycertified Citrus College students. Each group was tasked with designing, building, and flying model rockets. In addition to learning about rocketry, the students also gained technical writing knowledge, developed scientific reports, and enhanced their teamwork and communication skills. The program concluded with the symposium on May 28, during which each Junior Rocket Owl answered questions about their project and shared their experiences.

As Glendora's representative on the Citrus Community College District Board of Trustees, I am proud of the fact that Citrus College has been active in providing local youngsters with opportunities to learn more about science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM). In fact, community outreach is a major component of the institution's STEM Program.

The Junior Rocket Owls is one of several Citrus College programs designed to provide elementary, middle, and high school students with pre-collegiate preparation in these vital subjects. Whether it is through our Secrets of Science Camp, the PAGE (Pre-Algebra, Algebra, and Geometry Enrichment) Program, or STEM Day for Girls, Citrus College is committed to increasing the likelihood that Glendora students will consider pursuing STEM fields in the future.

Justin Frias is one such student. The Glendora resident, who decided to explore STEM at Citrus College, recently participated in the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's (NASA) annual Student Launch competition. Frias and his team mates comprise the Rocket Owls, a group of Citrus College students who competed against 47 other teams from colleges and universities across the United States. They were tasked with designing, constructing, and launching a rocket that was required to reach an altitude of one mile, deploy an automated parachute system, and safely land where it could be recovered.

In addition to the launch, the Citrus College students created a website documenting their projects; took exams administered by NASA engineers; and raised awareness of STEM education in their communities through workshops and presentations at local schools. As a result of their efforts, the Rocket Owls received the competition's Educational Engagement Award. They were the only community college team in the nation to place in the competition, coming in fourth after Vanderbilt University, University of Louisville, and

lege students, the Galactic Owls, competed at a second event recently hosted by NASA. These five scholars were the only representatives from California selected to participate in NASA's international Human Exploration Rover Challenge, or HERC. They faced off against college and university teams from Russia, Germany, Italy, Mexico and India; successfully completing the mandatory rover obstacle race and optional sample collection challenge.

The Junior Rocket Owls Symposium and the recent success of the two student teams underscore the fact that Citrus College has a remarkable STEM Program with outstanding instructors. In recent years, this program has received state and national attention, which has included being named a STEM Jobs? Approved College and receiving the Chancellor's Student Success Award from the chancellor of the California community college system.

Much has been said about the need for skilled workers in STEM industries. Many believe that the nation's ability to produce sufficiently educated workforce in these fields is directly connected to our national competitiveness and global standing as an economic leader. With STEM becoming increasingly vital to the growth of the United States, I believe that Citrus College's robust and effective program will continue to be incredibly beneficial to Glendora and its students long into the future.

Sharp Message From The Fed

The Fed minutes, released last Wednesday, made clear FOMC officials think investors have grown too complacent about the possibility of rate hikes. As Binya Appelbaum at the NYT pointed out, while the Fed sent a sharp, simple message to financial markets Wednesday: "Pay attention. The Fed is thinking seriously about raising its benchmark interest rate at its next meeting in June," tightening remains far from certain. Some officials don't think there's time for the data to convincingly demonstrate a rebound by the June meeting.

Last year, the second quarter was the strongest in a year. But we didn't even see a hint at that strength until June because the first retail sales and consumption reports were very weak. They were revised higher later, but Q2 GDP tracked less than 1% growth through May. The earliest inklings of strength were released right before the June meeting. Fed officials were relatively confident the economy was recovering based on these first glimpses of strength, but opted to wait and see if the one or two reports of strength available were backed by others. Q2 growth ended up being a solid 3.6%, but there was very little evidence of that strength at the time of the meet-

There's no reason to think this year will play out like last year, of course. But we are once again faced with disappointing first quarter growth in addition to an ongoing, multi-quarter drop in corporate profits, weak business investment and sliding consumer confidence. As some noted in the minutes, there appears to be a loss of economic momentum.

As a result, despite the Fed's desire for higher market odds of tightening, a June rate hike remains unlikely unless just about everything goes right between now and the meeting. Those who position for tightening may be taking a risk

The Fed has been pushing investors to brace for rate hikes for 14 months. In that time, they have hiked just once. As a result, at the beginning of this year, markets came back after a brief period of disruption. This time, if the economy lacks enough oomph for the Fed to act decisively, market uncertainty is inevitable.

Markets reacted to the Fed's tough talk as one might expect: UST yields rose, stocks dropped (they were down also in Asia and Europe) and commodities dropped, too. Oil was down almost a dollar at $47.28, though that may have resulted from a surprise revelation by the API that US crude inventories rose vet again last week.

Fed funds futures jumped from 12% odds of a hike to 28% on the headline that most of the FOMC wants to hike in June if the economy picks up. Here's the full quote:

"Most participants judged that if incoming data were consistent with economic growth picking up in the second quarter, labor market conditions continuing to strengthen, and inflation making progress toward the Committee's 2 percent objective, then it likely would be appropriate for the Committee to increase the target range for the federal funds rate

The context is equally harrowing for those worried about interest rate risk. Consider:

* Some think the market odds were too low for June, implying the decision to delay the hike is a much closer call than traders

* Some think the Fed is risking market disruption if it pauses too long between hikes.

* The committee is still committed as a group to "normalizing interest rates," even though it's hard to imagine how anyone knows what normal interest rates are these days.

All that said, there remains a lot of nervousness about June. Several think there isn't enough time for the data to improve enough to allow a hike.

Some worry the economy is losing momentum.

 Several noted that while financial market volatility was lower in April, there were still big potential risks hanging over the market, including Puerto Rico, rapidly rising Commercial RE prices, and mutual fund asset illiquidity.

The Fed is worried about Britain leaving the European Union (BREXIT).

Bottom line: Traders were too complacent about the Fed. After all, the FOMC does think rate hikes will be necessary, and seems to think rates have to rise a whole lot more than most of us in the markets believe is rational. It is encouraging to hear some FOMC members starting to doubt the Fed's default assumption that there will be no headwinds in the future. This has been a persistent source of policy bias for years. Nevertheless, most are fiercely, perhaps even defensively, optimistic.

Wall Street continues to expect the Fed will NOT raise rates in June. But the minutes indicate there will be a lively discussion and the decision will be a close call, as apparently it was in April. Market odds of 28% are closer to what the FOMC wants - they do want a clear field to have a discussion and make a decision on the meeting day - but market odds remain far enough below 50% that Wall Street thinks the Fed will, in the end, elect to remain on hold.

It almost goes without saying, but in this context the next employment, retail sales and consumption reports take on added significance.

Financial - Ask Julia

Are there benefits for Veterans to help with long-term care expenses?

Yes. Qualifications include service, plus income limitations. If you served in a war (WW, Vietnam, Afghanistan, Iraq, etc.), after a review of your income, you can apply for benefits. In some cases these are available not only for the Veteran, but also for the Veteran's spouse. This benefit is substantial - around $2000 per

You talk about it, but are there really "safe investments"?

Yes, there are safe investments, and as with most things in life, there are conditions. First of all, the safety of the investments I recommend to my clients depend on the financial strength of the company. Second, although you cannot lose your investment dollars, you also cannot gain all the "ups" of the stock market that these investments mirror. Picture two elevators. One can go all the way up to the penthouse and all the way down to the basement. That elevator is like the stock market; it can capture all the gains and all the losses. Elevator number two can only go up to the 7th floor, and it cannot go lower than ground level. This elevator is like the safe investments I talk about; it can capture some of the gains, but suffers none of the losses. Which elevator do you want a good portion of your investment dollars in?

college, cannot afford to live on his own, so he's moving back in with us. Do you have any suggestions on how to handle this situation?

Welcome to the modern-day "boomerang" phenomenon. Issues to consider and communicate are: length of stay, rent and/ or contribution to household expenses, duties (chores), and mutual respect, freedoms, and communication. Be careful - don't sacrifice your own financial future. Make an effort to keep your sense of humor, express your love, and try to enjoy the extra time together. With housing prices and interest rates low, you might want to help her with the down payment on a house or condo. There are first-time homebuyer loans with very low down payment and interest rates which allow 'gift' funds to help with that initial outlay necessary to purchase.

We have life insurance policies and retirement accounts that we haven't looked at for vears. We really don't know what we have, let alone if or when they expire or mature, or even if we have the beneficiaries right. Would you be able to take a look, tell us what we've got, and advise us if we need to make any changes?

Throughout our lifetimes there are many changes, so it is wise to take a good look at what we have in terms of insurance, investments, and goals. Besides getting older, marriage, children, college, empty nest, sickness, divorce, and death all have a huge impact on our financial planning. It can be overwhelming to go through the various policies and accounts, but it is very important to make the time to sort paperwork and get organized. Consider getting a trusted family member or long-time friend to help you with this task. Another method is to find the company contact information on one statement, then call that company for the most recent statement. They are usually quite helpful.

WHAT YOU "AUTO" KNOW

By Gene Morill - Certified Automotive Specialists

Your Teen Driver And Safety

I have teenage children and my shop, Certified Automotive Specialists, in Glendora is very close to schools, so keeping teens safe on the road is a subject dear to my heart. I'm often asked what parents should look for in a car for their teen driver. Of course, a lot of teens dream of a fancy sports car but that certainly isn't the safe choice for young, inexperienced drivers. Teen drivers, between the ages of 16 to 19 are far more likely to have a crash than any other group. They tend to underestimate dangerous situations and they don't always react to them appropriately. It is hard for a mature, experienced driver to always make the right snap judgment when behind the wheel to avoid an accident. Everything happens way too fast. When you are brand new at driving it gets worse.

I always advise that before you pick a car based on price or looks think reliable and safety first, then choose the safest car you can afford to buy. Air bags, stability control and excellent tires are a good start. Large to midsize cars are safer than small cars because they are heavier. 16 models with the highest crash rates included 11 small cars. I know it is natural to assume that a smaller car is easier to handle and many times the teens like them because they appear sportier, however they are not the safest choice.

You also don't want to buy a car that has a lot of horsepower or one that has too little. Too much speed and power are, of course, dangerous but lack of power can be equally dangerous as they are too slow during lane changes. You might also share with your teen that California traffic tickets are mighty expensive these days. For example, just rolling through a stop sign will get you a relatively inexpensive ticket but by the time you pay all the agencies involved it can cost you plenty!

When you narrow down your choice of vehicle, check out the crash test scores on Safercar.gov. If you are buying a used car, please have it inspected carefully by us at Certified Automotive Specialists and let us know it is for a teen driver as we may be able to give you more insight into the safety of the vehicle.

Self-driving cars are soon to be a reality and then all we in Glendora have to worry about it is when the car's computer crashes!

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE (Probate - Decedents' Estates)

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF VINCENT FLAMMINIO CASE NO. 16STPB00190 ESTATE OF: VINCENT FLAMMINIO

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, and contingent creditors and persons who may be otherwise interested in the will or estate, or both, of VINCENT FLAMMINIO

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by EDWARD FLAMINO in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES. The Petition for Probate requests that EDWARD FLAMINO be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent. The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or have consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority. A hearing on the petition will be held in this court as follows: June 15, 2016 at 8:30 AM Dept. 9 at the SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA, COUNTY OF LOS ANGELES, 111 N. Hill Street, Los Angeles, CA

90012, Stanley Mosk Courthouse. IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a CONTINGENT CREDITOR OF THE DECEDENT, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of the estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Fairmount Pioneer Cemetery Memorial Day Observance

GLENDORA/AZUSA - Residents are cordially invited to attend the 140th annual Memorial Day Observance at historic Fairmount Pioneer Cemetery this coming Monday, May 30 at 11:30 AM. Entrance is off Barranca Ave. on the newly constructed Elderberry St., just north of the railroad tracks.

This heartfelt and homespun commemoration of those who died that we might live free in the United States has been done locally in one form or another since the Cemetery was founded in 1876. The founders and pioneers of both Azusa and Glendora are buried at Fairmount. Veterans of the Civil War, Spanish-American War, World War I and World War II are buried there.

Memorial Day grew out of observances in both North and South in the aftermath of the Civil War. Over 600,000 men the Naval Reserve to this day, will were killed in combat and from disease and the privations of war between 1861 and 1865. The massive scale of loss affected most families in America and over the ensuing decades, local celebrations grew into a national movement and Memorial Day was established as May 30th of each year. Thousands of observances are now held across the country each year. Congress established the last Monday in May of each year as the official observance date beginning in 1971.

The Fairmount Pioneer Cemetery Board of Trustees is proud to welcome this year all five Members of the Glendora City Council to our Observance. Azusa Councilman and hometown hero Uriel Macias, a recent veteran of a tour of duty in Afghanistan and still an officer in represent the City of Azusa. Macias presented the Cemetery Trustees with an American flag flown over U.S. Headquarters in Kabul, Afghanistan upon his return to America two years ago. The Macias Flag is the one used each year for the Fairmount Memorial Day Observance and for special occasions upon request. It is kept folded and stored in a safe place the rest of the time, and the Trustees anticipate using it for many decades to

Since 9/11, the Cemetery Trustees have included a special segment in the annual Observance to honor our police and fire departments. This was done in recognition of the fact that these brave men and women are on the front lines domestically of the War Against Terror every day. The terrorist attack in San Bernardino last December, and the heroic response of police and fire there in terminating the terrorists, tending to the wounded and honoring the dead is the most recent reminder that it can happen here! Honored guests at the Observance this year will be Azusa Police Chief Sam Gonzales, Glendora Police Chief Tim Staab, the Glendora Police Honor Guard and representatives from Station 97 of the L.A. County Fire Department.

Keynote Speaker this year counter terrorism expert, Iraqi War veteran and current criminal gang prosecutor Elan Carr. Elan is also still an active military reserve officer. He will talk about terrorism and the threat that we face domestically.
