Gold Line Foothill Extension Grand Opening

By Jorge V. Rosales

DUARTE - On Saturday. March 5, Metro launched the Gold Line Foothill Extension from Pasadena to Azusa with a VIP Breakfast Program at City of Hope's Cooper Auditorium from 8-9:30 am with numerous speakers, followed by a dedication ceremony at 10 am, at the Duarte/ City of Hope Station with more speakers, and a ribbon cutting ceremony at the Duarte Station before the first rails began operating east and westbound. Free rides to the public began at noon and ended at midnight only on the Gold Line.

The extension was completed on September 23, 2015 for about $1 billion, including a new $265million maintenance vard just south of the 210 Freeway in Monrovia; a little more than five years after construction began. The line was built by the Foothill Gold Line Construction Authority, an independent agency created in 1998 by the state Legislature. The 13.7-mile L.A.'s Union Station to Pasadena portion was built by the Authority and opened in 2003. In 2009, the Eastside extension added service from Montebello to Union Station. Great Trivia Challenge 24 was a Success!

GLENDORA - The Great Trivia Challenge has entertained the community and at the same time raised much needed funds for the Glendora Public Library for 24 years. The event started in 1992, in the Library's Bidwell Forum, with 17 teams, dessert and drinks and has grown to 23 teams and a food buffet for over 400 guests. All the food is provided by local restaurants and members of the Glendora LDS Churches.

"Funds raised at this event are vital for all sorts of Glendora Pubic Library opportunities and programs out in the community and at the Library, books, online resources, and Adult Literacy. Thank you to our community members for their support, and to the GPL Friends Foundation for making the annual Great Trivia Challenge such a wonderful and worthwhile evening," Library Director Stone said at the beginning of this fun event.

It was an exciting challenge as three teams went 10 rounds before a winner was declared. Master of Ceremonies, "Mr. Trivia" Thom Hill, asked the final and winning question, "What Welsh singer is particularly well known in the U.S. for recording the theme song to the Bond 'Goldfinger'?" The answer, (Dame Shirley) Bassey.

RG Business Insurance Agency was the winning team and, first time participant James Hundshamer CPA team came in second place!

Murray Elementary Students Raise Nearly $3,000 to Support Classmates Battling Cancer

AZUSA - About 500 Murray Elementary School students collected nearly $3,000 in change from their neighbors to help schoolmates battling cancer; one fourth-grader is in cancer remission and one third-grader, diagnosed this year, is at the City of Hope hospital.

'We raised a lot of money," said Lesley Rodriguez, Murray third-grader and student council representative. "We want our friends to get better soon."

The funds went toward the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society's Pennies for Patients cancer research program, which helps fund breakthrough therapies and patient services.

"Our student council representatives wanted to show their support by participating in a fundraiser," Murray Principal Saida Valdez said. "They really came through for their friends in remission."

Pennies for Patients is one component of the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society's Student Series, a service learning and philanthropy program which has engaged more than 14.5 million students in 28,000 schools across the country, raising more than $27 million in 2014-15.

"Rallying in support of their classmates and raising money for a charitable cause shows maturity beyond their years," said Dr. Linda Kaminski, Azusa Unified School District Superintendent. "We are so thankful to Principal Valdez, her staff and her students for their hard work and compassion."

In addition to raising thousands of dollars for cancer research, Murray students also received extra perks for participating in the fundraising event.

A Celebration of Life

JESSE P. ALVA

Lifelong Azusa resident and community volunteer, Jesse Alva, died in his home after complications from multiple medical conditions. Born to Jose Macias Alva and Concepcion Martin Perez on Azusa Avenue, Jesse grew up working in his father's citrus groves in the Azusa/Glendora area. He attended Charles H. Lee School and Citrus Union High School. In 1951, he married Carmen Breceda after a chaperoned courtship, which included a first kiss in front of the movie theatre at Azusa Ave. and 6th Street.

Jesse became a well-known and respected member of the community. Among many other civic involvements, Jesse was a reserve Police Officer and Code Enforcement Officer for the City of Azusa. He was also a longtime Planning Commissioner and member of several Azusa community boards and clubs, including Sister City and the Azusa High School Band Boosters. In addition, Jesse also spent several years as a reserve Police Sergeant in the City of Chino and VCAP volunteer for the City of El Monte Police Department.

Jesse was known by his nickname "Tuti" to childhood friends and family members. This nickname came as his given name "Jesus" was endeared to "Jesucito", then "Tutito" and finally to "Tuti".

In the early 1950's, with a growing family, Jesse supplemented the income from his job with Aerojet General by moonlighting as an auto mechanic in Glendora. One evening, Jesse attended to two men needing a car repair. For a variety of reasons, Jesse believed these men to be suspicious and notified the Glendora Police Department who set up surveillance. When the men returned for their car, Jesse gave the prearranged signal and the police swooped in.

The men were found to be bank robbers on the run from Las Vegas. That event changed Jesse's life forever. Jesse later joined the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department but quit when his young bride became too fearful for the safety of her children's father. Through negotiation, Carmen relented and allowed her husband to become a reserve police officer.

Jesse continued with this newfound love in the safety and security industry and was hired by Sears in Covina as an undercover security officer. Jesse excelled in this position and climbed to the position of Security Manager at the Covina store, and later at the newly constructed Puente Hill Mall store.

Sears, Jesse enjoyed helping his friends and relatives in the construction industry. Jesse developed skills in all facets of the at Oakdale Cemetery, Glendora.

construction trade. As a result, he has personally completed many new-builds, re-builds, remodels and has planned development for properties throughout Southern California.

Jesse loved playing guitar in the church choir as his wife, Carmen, sang. He also enjoyed tending his fruit trees and taking trips to Rosarito, Mexico and Las Vegas with his wife of 48 years.

Jesse's wife, Carmen Breceda of Irwindale, preceded him in death from an auto accident in 1999. Jesse and Carmen are survived by their sons, Robert, Randy, Kenny and Dennis, along with several grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Senator Hernandez' Tobacco 21 Legislation Clears the Assembly

California is Poised to Become Second State in the Nation to Raise Smoking Age to 21

SACRAMENTO - California legislators came together to make history as the second state in the nation to pass a bill, authored by Senator Ed Hernandez (SBX2 7), that raises the minimum age for purchasing tobacco products to

"I'm proud to see my colleagues come together on this bill," said Senator Hernandez "We are no longer going to sit on the sidelines while Big Tobacco markets to our kids and gets another generation of young people hooked on a product that will ultimately kill them."

This bill, which passed out of the Assembly on a vote of 46 to 26, simply raises the legal age from 18 to 21 that people can purchase tobacco products. Along with the passage of Senator Leno's SBX2 5, this "Tobacco 21" measure will require Californians be 21 years of age in order to buy ecigarette products as well.

Tobacco remains the leading cause of preventable death in the United States with 480,000 people dying annually -40,000 from effects of secondhand smoke. According to the CDC, tobacco use kills more people per year than alcohol, murders, illegal drugs, AIDS, and motor vehicle accidents. It is estimated that 90% of tobacco users start before the age of 21. roughly 80% first try tobacco before age 18, and 75% of teen smokers continue into their adult years. Additionally, studies have shown that a large percentage of people who purchase cigarettes for illegal distribution are under 21 years of

"This is a major victory for public health in California," said Hernandez. "California has always been a leader in health care, including tobacco control. I'm hopeful California will be a turning point for this movement across the country and we can substantially reduce the heavy and costly burden of tobacco in society."

Aside from the vast human toll, tobacco inflicts a heavy burden financially on our state. The Campaign for Tobacco Free Kids estimates that direct health care expenditures related to smoking in California amount to approximately $13.3 billion annually – with about $3.5 billion in direct Medi-Cal costs. They also estimate California experiences a $10.3 billion loss in productivity annually related to tobacco usage.

This bill is supported by the Save Lives California Coalition. American Heart Association, American Lung Association, American Cancer Society, the California Medical Association, the California Dental Association, parents and community leaders statewide. After a concurrence vote in the Senate next week, the bill will go to the Governor for signature.

Assessor Jeffrey Prang Orders Review Of Exide-Affected Properties To Determine Potential Property Tax Savings

LOS ANGELES - Los Angeles County Assessor Jeffrey Prang expressed deep concern for the victims of Exide contamination in the areas of Los Angeles (Boyle Heights), Vernon, Maywood, Huntington

Park, Commerce, and other impacted communities. Assessor Prang emphasized that his Office is proactively reviewing all properties in the area to determine any loss of property values that may provide tax relief to local property and busi> ness owners in the area. "I have deep concern for those affected by Exide's contamination of their property," said Assessor Jeffrey Prang. "It is my responsibility to ensure all properties are fairly assessed and provide tax relief when warranted. Consequently, I have ordered my Office to identify any and all avenues to help property owners during this difficult time." If property owners have any questions, they are encouraged to call the Assessor's Office general public service line at 818-258-6001.

California law allows for a temporary reduction in assessed value when a property suffers a "decline-in-value". A decline-in-value occurs when the current market value of a property is less than the assessed value as of January 1 of the previous year. Once a request has been made, the Office of the Assessor will review the property to determine if it has suffered a decline-invalue. If a reduction is warranted, the property's assessed value will be lowered, thereby resulting in a lower property tax

Two Parties-One Christian And One Secular?

Politics in a number of European nations differs dramatically from politics in the US. As a rule, these nations operate with a Parliamentary system. In national elections the winning party forms the government either by itself or in a coalition with one or more smaller parties. It stays in power until it loses an important vote or its term expires. It can change Prime Ministers from within its own ranks at will, or call for new snap elections at any time during its four or five year term.

There is another less obvious difference. The Parliament of Germany, the Bundestag, has two major parties. Presently the nation is being governed by "the Christian Democratic Union" (CDU). But there is also the Social Democratic Party (SPD) which most often stands to the left of the CDU It is unclear what the words "Christian" or "Social" means in terms of policy, since Germany is largely a secular society with no official state reli-

Here is my question. Is the US moving toward a two party system, one being the Christian Republican Party, and the other, the Social(ist) Democratic Party? Listening to the current crop of candidates running for President it is clear that the Republicans believe they control a very large block of evangelical Christians-a voting constituency they believe large enough to swing an election. The intra-party question is, which candidate is pious enough to hold their attention at least until November?

On the other hand one hears little conversation among Democrats about religion, and the party's candidates operate with little attention given to evangelicals. Does this mean that we have a de facto European style system composed of a party that might as well have "Christian" in its name, and another party without that designation? Are Republicans much more Christian than Democrats? That depends on what you mean by the term "Christian." If being a Christian means having beliefs about Jesus and his relationship to individuals thus securing personal salvation and a place in heaven, that probably would identify what most Republican presidential candidates either believe or want people to think they believe. In this way of thinking to be a Christian is based on doctrinal orthodoxy.

But what if being a Christian means more than not just believing things about Jesus. A generation ago many of the faithful wore a wristband that read, "WWJD?" What would Jesus do? Looking at Jesus this way was not to believe things about him or praise him, but rather to follow him. Clearly we today cannot say for sure what Jesus would do, or would have us do in certain specific circumstances. But we do have more than a hazy grasp on the ethic which formed the basis of his life and teachings.

We know he was dedicated to living non-violently and he majored in making peace with his enemies. We know how he treated foreigners, and how he dedicated his life to the poor, the outsiders and the despised. We know how he was terribly disturbed by economic inequality. We also know he cared deeply about the natural world.

Certainly both American political parties fall far short of following Jesus' ethical stance or his vision of how God would have us live. The Democratic Party can no more be called "Christian" than the Republican Party. And yet listening to the candidates for President, it is crystal clear that the Republican candidates, who wax loudly about their Christian faith, are most often opposed to the way Jesus would have society shaped.

No, the Republican Party and its swarm of evangelicals cannot claim to be the haven the question "WWJD?" However, on a number of issues facing the nation there are both Christians and serious non-Christians who more clearly are dedicated to the same ethical society rooted in Jesus' view of the world. One does not need to be a Christian to share the world-view of Jesus, but to call oneself a Christian and be dedicated to the opposite may be a terribly distorted understanding of what He taught and who He was. That is really what the Pope had to say as he returned home from Mexico. Those whose political judgments move in the direction of the ethic Jesus embodied can just as honestly be called his followers as those who believe doctrines about him. And we can find them in both parties.

To Find Hope, Look Around You

By Lee H. Hamilton

These are very unhappy times in Washington. Relations between the executive and legislative branches are not just sour, but corrosive. The Republican-led Senate has declared it will simply ignore a presidential nomination to the Supreme Court. Both houses have announced that they will flout a tradition going back to the 1970s, and refuse to hold a hearing for the President's budget director to present the White House's federal budget proposal. Partisan paralysis and game-playing on Capitol Hill have become a hallmark of these times, as has the evident distaste our nation's leaders feel for one another.

It would be understandable to give in to despair, and a lot of Americans have done so. I have not, and for a simple reason: in our system there is always hope. Why? Because our representative democracy rests finally not on what politicians in Washington or in our state capitals do, but on what our

The bedrock assumption of representative government is that Americans will make discriminating judgments about politicians and policies, and shoulder their responsibility as citizens to improve their corner of the world. The remarkable thing is, they often do. Over a long career in politics, I've seen it happen more times than I can count. At some gathering, people will complain about the schools or the roads or the behavior of a public official or an act of government that galls them. Then, after talking it over, they decide to act. They do something about it.

Even better, the less-than-admirable stumbling blocks that we've come to identify with politics — confrontation, obstructionism, divisiveness are rarely present. Public dialogues may get heated, but they don't often descend to the level of bitterness and obstinacy we see these days in Washington.

what you see when ordinary

Americans decide to get involved in a public issue is their common sense and good judgment, their fundamental decency, and their remarkable sense of fairness. Over and over, as I watch citizens at work trying to fix their communities in ways big and small, I've found myself wishing that members of Congress and other officials could take a ringside seat. The people involved almost always want to see that even people they don't agree with have a chance to say their piece. They recognize there are differences of opinion and that they have to be sorted through. If you ask them to describe what result they want, they will always use the word, "Fair." They make decisions by and large based on hope, not fear or despair.

The sense that comes through when you watch Americans at work on public issues is their overwhelming desire to improve their commu-More than anything else, nity. Often this is reflected in concrete projects — a new bridge, a better school, a badly needed sewer system. But you can also see it in many people's cry for candidates who will set narrow interests and excessive partisanship aside, and work to improve the quality of life for all Americans.

While ordinary citizens may not know all there is to know about a given public policy issue, I was constantly impressed while in office at how much I learned from my constituents. We often think of representative government as a process in which the elected official educates constituents, but the reverse is usually even more the case. Americans may think that politics is filled with messiness and noise, but at the end of the day they understand the need for deal-making, compromise, and negotiation — and that to achieve change, they have to work through the system we have, which means educating and pushing political leaders. As a constituent put it to me, "What's the alternative?"

This is why I have an underlying confidence in representative government. Americans are pragmatic. They recognize the complexity of the challenges we face, understand there are no simple answers to complex problems, and do not expect to get everything they want. They see that what unites us — a common desire to improve our communities and create better opportunities for families and individuals — is stronger than what divides us. My confidence in the system is built on citizens exercising their right to make this a stronger, fairer country.

Some Drivers Just Don't Get It

Drivers just don't get it. My guess is a large majority of them do not have a driver's license to begin with. I would guess they don't have auto insurance either.

What part of the laws do they not understand? We all know that texting while driving or using the cell phone is illegal. Yet, we still have people that do this. You know who they are, usually the person in front of you that is stopped at a red light that does not go anywhere when the light turns green. Why, because they are on their cell phone texting. So, if you blow the horn, they may make it through that green light with time for you to also go through that light before it changes to red. What do you get in return for you blowing the horn to make them pay attention and stop breaking the law? Usually their middle finger. Go figure.

George Ogden That's just the way it is!

Still, we have people driving around during the day without their lights on when it is raining. It is the law, turn your lights

People seem to forget this law as well, try to stay 3 feet away from any bicyclist that is on the roadway. Sadly, this is hard to do when you have the bicyclist breaking the law going in the wrong direction. Chances of you seeing them in time are greatly reduced.

Some drivers seem to forget to do this little thing when they crash into another car, stop and exchange information. It is not okay to drive away at a very high rate of speed. For those of you that think it is okay, I have news for you, you are breaking the law and you are nothing more than a criminal when you do that.

it is the dash cam. The Russians have been using this for years and it is no wonder, they drive crazy and get into a lot of accidents. There are tons of recordings of these accidents all over the Internet. Many are very tragic and some are very comical which shows the stupidity of drivers. In my opinion, these dash cams should be required in all motor vehicles. This way when people do something stupid, we will have it recorded. For now, we just have to take our chances in the street with these people that continue to break our laws and drive without a driver's licenses or insurance.

Undercover Sting Operations SACRAMENTO teams of investigators with the Contractors State License Board (CSLB) concluded a productive search for unlicensed contractors in the greater Los Angeles area, citing a total of 23 persons in separate undercover sting operations. Fourteen persons received misdemeanor citations on illegal contracting charges in La Angeles. "Sting operations are conducted year-round up and down the state, in cities big and small," explained CSLB Registrar Cindi Christenson. "We want to send a message that we want to shut down unlicensed contractors who frequently take advantage of consumers, and take business away from legitimate, licensed contractors."

· Investigators with CSLB's Statewide Investigative Fraud Team (SWIFT) set up the two-day sting at the home near NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory. A list of potential unlicensed contractors was compiled using online advertising sites, procured business cards, and internal case files. Playing the role of owners, investigators then called for bids on home improvement projects such as tree removal/service, tankless water heater installation, concrete work, and painting.

contracting without a license (Business and Professions Code (BPC) section (§) 7028) on the sting's first day, Feb. 10, and seven more at the next day's operation. Estimates given to investigators ranged from $1,100 to $4,300, both paint bids. All bids significantly exceeded the legal limit of $500 for materials and labor before a state contractor license is required.

 An additional misdemeanor charge of illegal advertising (BPC §7027.1) was lodged against eight of the 14 suspects cited over the sting's two days. State law requires unlicensed contractors to state in all advertising that they are not licensed.

 Background checks revealed that one bidder was on probation for a domestic violence conviction, two had outstanding traffic warrants of $50,000 and $40,000, respectively, and another was wanted on a $10,000 traffic warrant. Officers with the Department of Consumer Affairs' Division of Investigation assisted in processing suspects.

 Those cited are scheduled to appear April 25-28, 2016, in Los Angeles County Superior Court, 600 East Broadway, Glen-

• Two of the nine persons cited on illegal contracting charges in this sting turned out to be recent repeat offenders.

 SWIFT investigators pretended to be owners of the single-family home seeking bids on masonry work, painting, window and shutters replacement, and wrought iron railing. Online advertising sites and case files helped make up the contact list of potential unlicensed contractors. Officers from the state Department of Insurance lent assistance.

 Four persons were cited for contracting without a license on the sting's first day, Feb. 10, and five more were caught the next day. The $11,300 bid to replace a section of iron railing was the highest of those submitted for the two days. Three were cited for illegal advertising.

· Investigators discovered that two of the bidders were no strangers to CSLB stings. One had been cited for unlicensed contracting at an August 2014 sting in Santa Monica. He told investigators he was still serving probation term for that offense. Another man had been cited in Alhambra by CSLB in January 2015, and said he had been ordered to perform community service for the violation. Both face harsher punishment if convicted of the same offense a second time. State law calls for a fine up to $5,000 and possible jail time if there's a previous conviction for unlicensed contract-

• Those cited are scheduled to appear at a date to be determined in Los Angeles County Superior Court, 210 West Temple Street, Los Angeles CA 90012 (MAP).

What Recession?

Friday morning's employment report was big because in recent speeches Fed officials have retreated from their push to raise rates at four-quarter-point-hikesper-year pace and instead become more deliberate. Or, as Stan Fischer put it, gradual no longer means a certain number of rate hikes. Multiple Fed rate hikes in 2016 would have been considerably more aggressive than the market was prepared to handle.

But this new reticence arrives just as core inflation experienced its biggest pop in years last Friday. Given the Fed's belief inflation comes from expectationswhich had tumbled-and tight labor markets, the jobs report was watched closely.

Amid fears that the U.S. could be joining a global slowdown, the economy added a better-than-expected 242,000 jobs in February while the unemployment rate held steady at 4.9 percent. Economists were expecting 190,000 new positions and no change in the jobless figure.

February's payroll rise appeared to be huge, but there was a quality problem. The workweek and wages fell, and aggregate hours worked tumbled 0.4%. The only way to make sense of the big job gain and weak hours/earnings is a surge in part-time hiring. That is also consistent with the industry breakdown, with the biggest gains in retail and healthcare.

WHAT IS THE TRUE UN-EMPLOYMENT RATE?

There's no one true unemployment rate. That 4.9 percent figure is the official rate used by the government, but the Labor Department calculates a number of figures to capture what's going on in the labor market. On jobs day, they release a lot of data, each of which says something different about the state of jobs and wages. Most economists looks past the official rate (also known as the "U-3") to the U-6, which includes more unemployed work-

While the U-3 rate is the "Government's official" unemployment rate, it measures only those actively looking for a job as a percentage of the total labor force, so it leaves out large swaths of the non-working popu-

The U-6 rate includes all unemployed as well as "persons marginally attached to the labor force, plus total employed part time for economic reasons," as a percentage of the labor force. So, the unemployed, the underemployed and the discouraged are included. That rate remains stubbornly above prerecession lev-

However, the U-6 rate did fall to 9.7 percent in February. Overall, the U-6 has been more volatile than the U-3. It's down 1.3 percentage points over the past year, versus a 0.6-point drop in the U-3.

The jobs report comes at a delicate time for Wall Street, as volatility in the markets calls into question nascent improvements in the economy at large. A trend of solid monthly job gains could convince the Federal Reserve to raise interest rates further in

Fed Chair Janet Yellen has said the committee is watching for improvements in economic data to decide a course forward.

If the labor participation rate and wages rise at the same time, that's a good sign. It means workers who were previously sitting on the sidelines are getting active again, possibly inspired to look for work as they see improvement in the economy.

Stocks staged a mild rally after the report and finished the third straight up week, though it's always hard to tell whether equities are rising because economic strength will boost the broader picture, or if weakness will keep interest rate hikes at bay.

Indeed, how it all plays out with the most important audience, the Federal Reserve, remains to be seen. Traders cut the chances of a March rate hike to zero following the report.

In the meantime, workers likely will be left with more headlines about job "growth" that hasn't quite made it to their pay-

Frankly, it's difficult to rectify the biggest back-to-back retail hiring increase since the summer of 1994 with the current retail climate, but maybe retailers think the pop in spending in January is the start of something lasting. We'll see. In the meantime, lots of poor quality jobs might encourage the Fed to raise rates, but falling wages and hours should keep them at bay in March at

Can I deduct something on my tax return if I don't have a receipt?

It's always better to have a receipt. If you cannot obtain legitimate proof, sometimes an entry on your calendar, diary, or log of some sort might help. "Standard" deductions don't require receipts. Check with your CPA for further tax advice.

Some annuities offer an upfront bonus, and they all offer deferred taxes. (With CDs you pay taxes on the gains annually; with annuities, you pay taxes when you use the money.) Many annuities offer living benefits: access to at least some of the money without penalties, nursing home benefits, death benefits, and more. (CD's don't offer those!)

Your feelings are normal, and to be expected. What you're experiencing is equivalent to the death of a loved one. And, as such, the 5 stages of grief are applicable. Stage one is denial. This involves not looking at your investment statements, hoping your losses are not real. The second stage is anger, when you ask, "Why did this happen to me?" Stage 3 is reasoning. When it comes to investments, this involves hoping the market will rally enough to return your retirement investment and plans to the way they were. Then comes Stage 4, depression, where folks find themselves giving up in hopelessness. And finally, there's the 5th stage, acceptance. This is where you realize that you've got to make

BACKGROUND

Consolidated Plan: Every five years, the CDBG program requires the City to adopt a "Consolidated Plan," which establishes the goals and objectives of the City's CDBG program. During the development of this FY 2013-2018 Consolidated Plan, which forms the basis for establishing objectives and outcomes in the Strategic Plan and five (5) subsequent Annual Action Plans, the following priority needs and objectives were established:

- Affordable Housing: Promote, preserve, and assist in the development of affordable housing for low- and moderate-income residents, special needs groups, those at- risk of homelessness, and disproportionately impacted residents
- Fair Housing: Promote fair and equal housing choice for all persons, promote housing that is accessible to and usable by persons with disabilities, and comply with the non-discrimination requirements of the various Fair Housing laws

- Economic and Human Development: Provide for the economic development needs of low- and moderate- income persons and neighborhood
- Administration and Planning: Provide for administration and planning activities to develop housing and community development strategies and programs needed to carry out actions that address identified needs in the Consolidated Plan. These established Priority Needs form the basis for allocating investments geographically within the jurisdiction during the next five-year period and are a result of various community outreach efforts and consultation meetings developed under the Citizen Participation process

Only eligible activities that received a High priority level in the FY 2013-2018 Consolidated Plan, will be funded during the next five years

Annual Action Plan: The Annual Action Plan is part of the Five-Year Consolidated Plan and serves as the City's application for funding from HUD. The City of Glendora will receive an allocation of $251,468 of CDBG funds in fiscal year 2016-2017. In addition, approximately $60,000 of program income will be available. The Glendora City Council will approve the final plan after the 30-day comment period at the April 26, 2016 meeting for the adoption of the Plan. This funding may be allocated to the following types of eligible projects:

- Acquisition: by purchase, long-term lease, and donation of real property for an eligible public purpose.
- Disposition: of real property acquired under the CDBG Program.
- Construction and Rehabilitation: of certain publicly owned facilities, such as (a) senior citizen centers; (b) parks and playgrounds; (c) community 3. centers: (d) fire protection facilities and equipment; (e) sidewalks and street improvements; (f) water and sewer systems
- Rehabilitation of publicly and privately owned housing: for low-and moderate-income households.
- Public Services: which are new or expanding, and directed toward meeting employment, crime prevention, child care, drug abuse prevention, homeless assistance, or other community service needs.
- Removal of Architectural Barriers: that restricts the mobility and accessibility of elderly or handicapped persons to publicly owned and privately 6. owned buildings, facilities, and improvements.
- Special Economic Development Activities: that provide grants, loan guarantees and other forms of necessary or appropriate support to private or profit" businesses to provide increasing employment opportunities and other public benefit While funding amounts are somewhat flexible, there are statutory limitations that restrict the amount of funding for Planning and Administration costs to not more than 20 percent of the annual grant allocation and limit public services to 15 percent of the annual grant allocation.

Based on the limited amount of resources available to the City, statutory restrictions, and the Priority Needs determined to have a high priority level, staff

How One Veteran And His Family Found Support After An Injury

Service-related injuries have an effect that is felt by the entire family. Here's a look at one couple and how they coped.

One Family's Story

When Melissa Johnson and her husband, Sean, got married in 1995, Sean had already served in Operation Desert Storm and had been trained as a paramedic. He first enlisted in the U.S. Army at 17 and later would go on to do two more tours of duty.

It was during his third tour, Operation Iraqi Freedom, when he was hit by mortar fire. It left him with a traumatic brain injury (TBI), post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD) and depression.

"The combination of everchanging symptoms really made Sean's situation difficult," Melissa said. "We weren't getting answers from the doctors. Army medics weren't looking for the signs of traumatic brain injury back then and his condition went undiagnosed for two years. We were having a tough time getting benefits. It was an uphill battle-a continuing series of uphill battles."

It was also hard for friends and family to understand what was going on or how to help.

After experiencing increasing problems with his vision, Sean was declared legally blind in 2008. While he has a bit of usable remaining vision—enough to read text up close for a short time—he has lost the peripheral vision needed to travel safely. The damage to his brain hampers interpretation of information coming through his

Answers At Last

When Sean finally got connected with the Blinded Veterans Association (BVA) Field Service Officers at Hines Blind

Rehabilitation Center, things began to turn around. "All of a sudden, people were providing us with information—we didn't have to go searching for it. We got connected with people and programs we'd never have been aware of at home in rural South Dakota," Melissa said. "It was really that first BVA convention-meeting people, hearing success stories-it was so empowering. That was where Sean found out about tandem cycling; it gave him so much hope. It started us in a similar issues was most rewarding. Spouses and family members are the support teams for recovering veterans. "Caregiver burnout is a serious problem," Melissa said.

"Young spouses may also be juggling with caring for young children and jobs. There's a lot we can learn from each other, and from older veterans and their families that have already successfully navigated the changes."

Melissa now serves as Secretary for the National BVA Auxiliary Board. "The BVA Auxiliary offers a lot of support to veterans and their families," Melissa said. "It is there to make sure the spouses, partners and children of blinded veterans have a place they can turn to with their questions and concerns.

"I believe BVA programs and outreach are absolutely critical to the recovery and healing of our blind veterans," she said. "It is essential for a veteran who is adjusting to blindness to connect with peers who understand what they're going through. The information, resources and guidance provided by BVA are invaluable."

When I say "good,"

you say "neighbor."

StateFarm

"Oklahoma!" was the first collaboration between Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II, and debuted in 194. It is widely regarded as the catalyst to reinvent musical theater. It broke all records on Broadway, running for an impressive 2,212 performance. "Oklahoma!" continues to be one of the most influential musicals of all times.

The story is simple and quaint. The star crossed lovers, young farmer Laurie (Michaelia Leigh) and cowboy Curly (Greg Hammer), flirt, tease, goad, and persist in going out of their way to deflect admitting their mutual attraction and affection. Laurie's hired hand Jud Fry (Jeffrey Ricca) lusts after Laurie. Initially a sad, pathetic individual, he soon manifests his malevolent spirit. While the rivalry between Jud and Curly grows, cowboy Will Parker (Michael Skrzek) is unartfully striving to win the heart of his sweetheart Ado Annie (Monica Ricketts) prior to her father forcing a shotgun wedding to an unwilling peddler. The supporting cast is exemplary.

The creative team for "Oklahoma!" include Director Chuck Ketter, Music Director Douglas (who celebrates directing or musically directing over 100 productions for the Candlelight Pavilion), and Choreographer

Dustin Ceithammer. The actors are excellent. From the first note of "Oh What a Beautiful Mornin'," Hammer is a captivating and three dimensional hero. He brings a self confidence that does not devolve into bravado as it is balanced with healthy doses of anxiety, empathy, and sensitivity. Ricca does an excellent portrayal of the deeply troubled and explosive Jud. Leigh is the woman who comes between them, and she shines in this lead role.

If you enjoyed the 1955 film "Oklahoma!" with Gordon MacRae and Shirley Jones, you will love this production. The actors provide an excellent performance, with solid direction, outstanding choreography, and a remarkable supporting cast. Don't miss this outstanding musical "Oklahoma!"

"Oklahoma!" runs from March 4 through April 9. Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday evenings at 6 pm and Saturday and Sunday matinees at 11 am. Tickets are $58-$73 for adults and $30-$35 for children 12 and under. This includes: meal, show, and sales tax.
