Would you like to Go to Prom, but Need Help with a Dress? We would like to make your Prom Dreams Come True!

AZUSA - My Sister's Closet is a community project which collects gently used, special occasion dresses, handbags, shoes and jewelry to be given away. The Azusa Unified School District, Azusa Pacific University, the Azusa-Glendora Soroptimist's, Assistance League of Covina Valley and the Canyon City Foundation are collaborating to reduce the financial stress by providing these dresses at NO COST to any young lady who plans on attending her high school prom. Silvana Cavazos, program coordinator for the Azusa Unified School Districts Family Resource Center created this program to help girls participate in all the activities that make their high school experience fun without worrying about how they would pay for a dress. "I was lucky to have four sisters to share clothes with because my family, like many, was struggling to make ends meet without the extras like prom says Cavazos. I realized that I, like many others I knew, had special occasion clothing that could be put to use. I began to collect some things so that I could give them to someone who needed them. Now, I look around and feel good about what we are doing to help in our own small way. My hope is that girls will come and not only take a dress but also, that they will feel good about the experience and encourage their friends to do the same."

This is the sixth year that Azusa Pacific University will host the event, which will take place on Saturday, March 19, 2016. There is still room available for the second session, from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. The session will be held at the main campus in the LAPC room. Students from surrounding schools are invited to attend. For more information and to make reservations, contact Silvana Cavazos at (626) 732-8032 at the Azusa Unified School District. Follow us on Facebook.

Senate Policy Committee Approves Powdered Alcohol Ban

SACRAMENTO - Legislation that would ban powdered alcohol, or "Palcohol," in California has easily passed its first policy committee test, earning the unanimous support of the Senate Committee on Government Organization. SB 819, authored by Senator Bob Huff (R-San Dimas), would make California the 29th state to ban or restrict the sale of this dangerous product.

Powdered alcohol is a freeze dried version of alcohol which comes in a small pouch and is the equivalent of a shot of alcohol. The crystallized formula becomes a cocktail once mixed with water. Although the product isn't sold in stores yet, labeling was approved by the U.S. Alcohol and Tobacco Tax and Trade Bureau in 2014.

"This product is dangerous," said Senator Huff during today's hearing. "The ease of this substance presents an array of potential health problems in California as it can be snorted, added to energy drinks, slipped to un-

Senator Huff's legislation earned the support of numerous organizations during the hearing, including Alcohol Justice, the Health Officers Association of California and many others who testified in support of the bill. Because this new drug can be easily sold and transferred, they agree that this is a prime product for abuse by children and teenagers. Some experts predict that Palcohol will become the "Kool-Aid of teenage binge drinking."

According to a national advocacy group Alcohol Justice, California is the largest alcohol market in the U.S. and suffers the most alcohol-related harm. A 2013 study from the U.S. Centers for Disease Control found that the societal costs for binge drinking are higher in California than in any other state: $32 billion for one year of excessive alcoholic consumption. Tobacco 21 Legislation Moves to Governor's Desk for Signature

SACRAMENTO - SBX2 7. authored by Senator Ed Hernandez, O.D., which would increase the tobacco purchase age to 21, cleared its final legislative hurdle on Thursday morning, passing off of the Senate Floor with a vote of 26 to 10. The bill now moves to the Governor for signature.

"This is California's chance to make history by drastically reducing Big Tobacco's ability to target and poison our youth. We will no longer stand idly by while they continue to get generation after generation addicted," said Senator Hernandez, "We need to make this happen for the sake of our children and the overall health of our state."

ing cause of preventable death in the United States, with as many as 34,000 Californians dying annually. A 2015 Institute of Medicine study estimated that increasing the tobacco purchase age to 21 will result in 200,000 fewer premature deaths for those born between 2000 and 2019. Additionally, tobacco use results in approximately $3.5 billion in direct costs to the Medi-Cal system annually.

"This bill saves lives, saves billions of dollars, and will cost virtually nothing to implement," said Senator Hernandez. "The fierce opposition from Big Tobacco on this measure proves just how important this measure is and Tobacco use remains the lead- how much their business model relies on selling their drug to our kids."

More than 130 local municipalities across the United States have raised the legal tobacco age to 21. With a Governor's signature California would become the second state to raise the age to

The $314,000 program, approved March 8 by the Baldwin Park Unified Board of Education, restores a summer-learning program lost to Baldwin Park students during the deep cuts of the Great Recession.

The program is listed as a priority under the District's Local Control and Accountability Plan, which outlines how the District will spend state funds to improve student success.

"Summer enrichment programs play a key role in ensuring students remain academically engaged during the summer months," Superintendent Froilan N. Mendoza said. "I'm pleased that we can offer these options to help maintain and improve upon what they learn during the course of the regular school

Baldwin Park Unified's program will span four weeks, running from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. weekdays. It is open to all students who currently attend transitional kindergarten through fifth grade.

Students will rotate through three morning sections: standards-based learning delivered by credentialed teachers, a projectbased enrichment activity and a healthy living activity. Assemblyman Gatto Introduces Legislation Giving Parents Paid Time-Off for School Activities

SACRAMENTO-Assemblyman Mike Gatto (D-Los Angeles) introduced legislation giving parents the ability to participate in their children's education by requiring employers to provide three workdays of paid time-off for school-related activities every year. Studies show that children with involved parents perform better in school and face fewer disciplinary incidents.

"Being involved in your child's education shouldn't be limited by your family's income, and it shouldn't come down to a choice between meeting with a teacher or volunteering in the classroom, versus paying the bills," said

Gatto. "You shouldn't have to be a cast member of the 'Real Housewives of Beverly Hills' to be involved in your child's edu-

AB 2405 will update California's "Family-School and Partnership Act" to boost parent participation in their children's education. The Act, passed in 1995, allows parents, grandparents, and guardians to take up to 40 hours of unpaid, job-protected time-off for school activities and school-related emergencies per calendar year. The legislation will give teeth to this, by requiring that 24 of those 40 hours be paid time-off.

According to EdSource, less than a quarter of parents with an annual income below $30,000 described themselves as "very involved" in their children's education. 66% of those parents cited a lack of time and conflicting work schedules as the major obstacles to getting more involved.

"We must stop passively bemoaning the state of our schools, and do something to engage families in the educational process and the school community. AB 2405 will allow parents to play an active role in their children's success, without worrying about putting food on the table."

West Covina Police Car Stolen, Pursuit Ends with Suspect Killed in Shooting

By George Ogden

WEST COVINA - A West Covina police car was stolen from the South-Side of West Covina just after 9 PM Sunday, March 13. This led to a long pursuit where it became televised as it continued and came with the fatal ending of the suspect being shot and killed in Glendale.

As of this writing, all the details are not available as the Los Angeles Sheriff's Department continues their investigation of the shooting.

It appears that the suspect, a male adult, stole the police unit near Valley Boulevard in the South-Side of West Covina and took off westbound on Valley Blvd with the red and blue lights going. The suspect led police, at times at speeds over 100 miles per hour, in a pursuit from West Covina through Alhambra, Los Angeles, Hollywood, all the way to Pacoima, and then on to the 170 Freeway all the way into Glendale where it got back on the surface streets. It ended in the 100 block of S. Glendale Avenue. This was around 10:30 PM where the suspect drove into an alley where a PIT maneuver was initiated. Then the suspect drove into a police car. After that, he threw it into reverse to get away and turned into a parking area at which time a police SUV cruiser was able to impact the driver side door to attempt to disable the vehicle. It was about this time that a shooting took place as other West Covina police units surrounded the stolen car. As the officers cautiously approached the stolen police vehicle you could see that their composure became relaxed. It was at that time they realized the suspect was dead.

The suspect has not been identified and the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department was called to the scene for their investigation.

The circumstances on how the suspect was able to steal the police vehicle have not been made available at this time as there is a continuing investigation.

No officers were hurt during the pursuit or during the officer involved shooting. The officers were hoping for a more positive outcome but unfortunately the suspect forced the hands of the officers which led to the shoot-

Two Men Rob A San Dimas Convenience Store

By George Ogden/LASD

SAN DIMAS - Deputies with the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department have reported that they are looking for two men who robbed a Foothill Boulevard convenience store at gun point Sunday morning, authorities said.

The robbery took place shortly before Sunday at the 7-Eleven store at 660 E. Foothill Blvd., said Sgt. Jorge Chavez of the sheriff's San Dimas station.

The store clerk told deputies the two men "pretended to be customers," Chavez said. "Both went into the store, were looking around and picking up items."

The first robber then walked up to counter and it appeared he was going to pull out his wallet to pay for some merchandise but instead took out a handgun and pointed it at the clerk, Chavez said. At that point the second thief produced a handgun and told the clerk to take the money that was in the register and put it in a bag. Instead of allowing the clerk to follow his orders, the second robber jumped over the counter, took the money from the register, jumped back over the counter and ran out of the business along with the other thief, he said.

The two robbers were last seen headed east before disappearing.

Taken was an unknown amount of money and some miscellaneous items from the store, Chavez said. Both men were armed with black, semi-automatic handguns.

One robber was describes as Latino, in his late 20s with short black hair, medium complexion and unshaven. He was wearing clear glasses with white rims, a black baseball cap and a black sweatshirt with a hood.

The second robber is described as Latino, also in his late 20s, with short black receding hair, medium complexion and unshaven. He was wearing a brown sweater or jacket and brown khaki pants. Surveillance recording will be reviewed that should help with identifying the suspects.

Anyone with information on this case is asked to call the San Dimas Sheriff's station at 909-450-2700.

Napolitano Ready for Campaign 2016

By Lois M. Shade Former Mayor of Glendora

When the news broke that my Congressional Representative, Grace Napolitano, had suffered a stroke I became a little anxious. I called her office and was told it was a minor stroke, no permanent damage and causes were being addressed and corrected. Diet, blood pressure... all conditions of not only a stroke but those that go along with being in an elective office

It was Grace who reassured me she was "fixing" the problems and was indeed running for another 2-year term as my congressional representative to address issues that still needed her attention. Her staff has been very generous in supplying me with an "intelligence report" (needed info for me) and back up information concerning transportation, water and areas of other concern to Napolitano.

As far back as 2009, Grace Napolitano was concerned and addressing the drought in California asking for substantive solutions not finger-pointing in a letter to Ken Salazar, Secretary of the Interior. In that 2009 letter, Napolitano said:

"The California Congressional delegation is a diverse group. One thing that we all agree on is that the water crissis in Californai is significant, requires leadership and development of a solutions portfolio that builds upon our abilities to confront problems, and uses our innovation and ideas to mobilize the resources necessary to address the issues."

Suggestions in that letter

- · Dept of Interior find ways to increase water availability by 1 million acre feet
 - Pursue an aggressive water

reclamation program

Conservation in all areas

Congresswoman Napolitano currently serves on the subcommittee on Water Resources & Environment which oversees EPA's Clean Water Act and US Army Corps of Engineer water programs.

Water SMART, supported by the Congresswoman, proposes to have all bureaus of the Department of Interior work with tribes, states, local governments and non-governmental entities to establish a framework to coordinate water conservation. The information released says currently completed projects are saving an estimated 570,000 acre-feet per year, enough for 2.2 million people.

Grace Napolitano is the most senior California member of the U.S. House Committee on Transportation & Infrastructure and was supportive of the FAST Act passed with an overwhelming majority of both Houses. The bill provided an extension of the programs funded by the Highway Trust Fund and provides resources to the Department of Veterans Affairs for health services. Vote count in the house was 385-34; and, 91-4 in the Sen-

Napolitano said this is an important piece of legislation pro-

- Local control by increasing the percentage of funds flowing directly to local regions rather than to the states
- Provides $13 billion over 5 years for repairs and upgrading of rail and bus systems
- Maintains paratransit services for Access in L.A. County at the current rate structure
- · Provides funding for freight programs

 Increases from $5 million a vear to $245 million in FY 20 for railroad grade crossing safety for Alameda Corridor East; and, additional funding for train safety control systems supported by Metrolink.

· Allows water agencies to use municipal bonds as a local match to federal financing for water infrastructure.

One area where the democratic Grace Napolitano and the Republican me are going to disagree is on legislation created by Rep. Judy Chu and Chu's National Recreation Area and National Monuments being created by President Obama. The issues start with:

· No public hearings listening to the people who are impacted rather than bussing in the appearance of support for Chu's legis-

No definitive boundaries either in the San Gabriel Mountains NRA nor the Schiff Rim of the Valley proposal.

• Including private property in Chu's proposal as well as the Schiff proposal which gives the appearance of a "taking."

 Chu's failure to acknowledge Tribal Rights and state law, AB 52 (D-Gatto)

If the San Gabriel Mountains are a concern for preservation of a healthy forest, then our leaders in Washington, D.C. should be fully funding their maintenance.

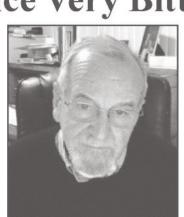

Grace Napolitano has done good work, not only in water and transportation but also in addressing our youth and gangs and mental health issues. Again, I talked with Grace, she sounds good and she's ready to get back on the road to another congressional win and I wish her all the

Watch Out - the Seeds You Plant May Produce Very Bitter Fruit

What is sown will determine what is reaped. That axiom is true for vegetables, persons, and organizations. It was only a few years ago that a few extremists sold the Republican Party an untested batch of seeds. The sellers suggested that if these seeds were properly planted and cared for, the Party would be reinvigorated. The seeds' description was printed on the package. It read, "Don't tread on me" circled by a rattlesnake. Inside the package were little brown pellets called "The Tea Party."

Sure enough, shortly after they were planted, shoots began to appear in what had been old, less-than-fertile soil. But the gardeners knew that no plants really flourish unless they are cared for, watered, exposed to the sun and fertilized. The gardeners did all these-perhaps not enough sunlight, but plenty of fertilizer.

Sarah Palin, the Governor of Alaska, materialized hyping this strange hybrid. With a handful of others, plans were developed to take over the gardening society. To this end they found and made use of just the right greenhouse. It was a very large domed building on the East side of the National Mall in Washington. To it they recruited and brought a new group of very sincere men and women whose job it was to grow this new crop of seedlings. Most of the new gardeners were clear about how much they hated gardening! In fact they had a very strange idea. Only non-gardeners should be given the task of gardening.

Although the greenhouse contained a great variety of other plants, these non-gardeners tending this new crop of seedlings claimed that all the other varieties were noxious weeds. So they declared that little else would be allowed to grow, and none of the plants that came from another source were even given garden new character who also hated gardeners, and took pride in not being one himself. Even though he said some very strange things, his popularity grew, and before anyone knew how to stop him he had taken over most of the garden patches around the country. Like the fabled tar-baby, the more he was hit the harder it was to dislodge him-even while those like him, who claimed to hate all old style gardeners, cheered him on.

For a long time the old style gardeners fought him, but the stronger he became the more it was obvious that he was to be the representative of this gardening fraternity. So they were forced to decide that their only option was to hold their noses and support him. Many of the long-time gardeners, including those who had a lease on the domed greenhouse, remained scandalized, knowing he had taken over.

Who was at fault? It is an axiom of history that what you sow will determine what you reap. That is true of plants, persons, organizations-and political par-

Cell Phone Searches By Law Enforcement

On December 2, 2015, 14 people were killed and 22 were seriously injured in a terrorist attack at the Inland Regional Center in San Bernardino, California, which consisted of a mass shooting and an attempted bombing. The perpetrators, Syed Rizwan Farook and Tashfeen Malik, a married couple living in the city of Redlands, targeted a San Bernardino County Department of Public Health training event and holiday party, of about 80 employees, in a rented banquet

The ongoing investigation after the slaughter of our Americans by these terrorists, authorities recovered a lot of evidence which included their cell phones. In an attempt to breach the security of these cell phones to gather information on what these terrorists were doing, they found it impossible without the assistance from the provider that handles the messaging. This would be like Apple, Google and other types of Internet media.

Request for assistance to gather information on how to access these phones were met with opposition by the Internet providers. The F.B.I. wanted Apple to help "unlock" an iPhone used by one of the two attackers who killed 14 people in San Bernardino in December, but Apple was resisting.

Back on June 25, 2014, the United States Supreme Court unanimously ruled that the search incident to arrest of an arrestee's cell phone is not permissible without a warrant - except in specific emergency circumstances such as "child abduction and the threat of bombs being detonated."

The California courts ordered Apple to assist in unlocking the phone, however they resisted and appealed the ruling. It appears they are going under the guidelines of "the right to privacy" and apparently do not care about our national security.

I believe in the right to privacy and this includes our cell phones and any Internet communications. This is our business and nobody else's. We should have the right to choose who sees our messages.

However, when you have individuals or groups of people that are terrorists and challenge our national security, at that time, that security on our phones should be set aside for national protection and security. I do believe a court order and/or search warrant should be implemented to proceed with this.

We have people out there that want to kill us and to do harm to us. When these people are identified positively, we should do what we can to protect our citizens and our country. When you commit crimes, you surrender your rights and privileges in this country. To me this would include any terrorist information that you may have embedded in your phone's memory or cyberspace for that matter.

When you are a criminal or terrorist, we need to know at all costs what you plan to blow up or who you plan to kill.

Two Suspected Car Thieves Arrested after Couple Spots them Driving Their Stolen SUV on the I-10 Freeway

By George Ogden

West Covina/Covina - West Covina Police dispatchers received a call from a husband-andwife who had spotted their stolen 2007 Honda Element SUV being driven by a man with a woman passenger that had been stolen the day before. This all started about 12:45 PM on Sunday, March 13 when they saw their vehicle on the 10 Freeway. West Covina officers were quick to get behind the stolen vehicle as it exited Citrus Avenue. The officer tried to initiate a traffic stop in the northbound lanes of Citrus Avenue, however the vehicle failed to yield and took off. At that time the officer went into pursuit of the vehicle. It took a number of surface streets through West Covina and then headed into Covina. Going east on San Bernardino Rd. crossing Grand Avenue were they got to Glendora Avenue and turned south. Once they got to Badillo, they went east where they turned south on Reeder. They took Reeder until it turned into Puente Avenue and at which time as they approached Rancho Los Nogales where both suspects jumped from the moving vehicle taking off into different directions. The vehicle continued on until it ran into a residential mailbox on the north side of the street.

The officer then pursued the male suspect on foot while the female suspect attempted to go in a different direction. As other officers entered the area they soon found the female subject who didn't get far as she had broken her ankle as she leaped from the vehicle.

As the officer continued to chase the suspect who had a good head start, citizens in the area pointed to the direction where the suspect had gone. As the officer continued with the foot chase he radioed his location the best that he could under the circumstances. Still, with the suspect out of sight, the officer continued to search with the aid of a number of residents giving directions to where they just seen the

A police helicopter and a K-9 unit were dispatched to the area. As neighbors worked together with the officers they pointed to a likely location where the suspect was last seen. Officers saw an open side door to a garage. West Covina police, Covina police and the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department set up a perimeter. They evacuated the residents in the area as they closed in on the target area. The residents of that particular home were evacuated as the police moved in.

The officers searched the surrounding areas first before going to the actual target area. Once they surrounded that garage area of the home, officers made a number of announcements just after 2 PM for the suspect to come out and surrender to the officers. They warned the suspect that they would send in a K-9 unit to assist with the apprehension if he did not comply. Officers entered the garage area and found the suspect hiding and he failed to comply with orders given to him to follow their instructions. The officers repeated their commands over and over again, and still, he failed to comply. For the safety of the officers and the safety of the suspect, the K-9 unit was deployed to assist in the apprehension. The suspect was dragged into an area by the K-9 unit where the officers could safely take the suspect into custody. The suspect was injured as he attempted to fight with the canine unit and was bitten. The suspect was arrested and taken to the hospital to treat the dog bite. Both suspects were treated at the hospital and were charged with a number of crimes including auto theft, resisting arrest, and the driver will be also charged with evading. Other charges may also be pending per the DAs office filing. Neither suspect was identified at this time.

HHS Awards $12,593,225 To California To Help Treat The Prescription Opioid Abuse And Heroin Epidemic

Awards put health centers at forefront in fight against abuse

Health and Human Services (HHS) Secretary Sylvia M Burwell announced $12,593,225 in funding through the Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) to support 36 health centers in California to improve and expand the delivery of substance abuse services in health centers, with a specific focus on treatment of opioid use disorders in underserved populations.

'The opioid epidemic is one of the most pressing public health issues in the United States today," said Secretary Burwell. "Expanding access to medicationassisted treatment and integrating these services in health centers bolsters nationwide efforts to curb opioid misuse and abuse, supports approximately 124,000 new patients accessing substance use treatment for recovery and helps save lives.

The abuse of and addiction to opioids, such as heroin and prescription pain medication, is a serious and increasing public health problem. Approximately 4.5 million people in the United States were non-medical prescription pain reliever users in 2013, and an estimated 289,000 were current heroin users. HHS also estimates the number of unintentional overdose deaths from prescription pain medications has nearly quadrupled from 1999 to 2013, and deaths related to heroin increased 39 percent between 2012 and 2013. Administered by the HHS

Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA), with these awards California will be able to increase the number of patients screened for substance use disorders and connected to treatment, increase the number of patients with access to MAT for opioid use and other substance use disorder treatment, and provide training and educational resources to help health professionals make informed prescribing decisions. Nationally, this $94 million investment is expected to help awardees hire approximately 800 providers to treat nearly 124,000 new pa-

'Health centers treat some of the most at risk patients in the country," said HRSA Acting Administrator Jim Macrae. "These awards position health centers to be at the forefront of the fight against opioid abuse in underserved communities.'

Research demonstrates that a whole-patient approach to treatment through a combination of medication and counseling and behavioral therapies, is most successful in treating opioid use disorders. In 2014, over 1.3 million people received behavioral health services at health centers, a 75 percent increase since 2008. This funding builds upon and leverages previous investments by providing support to health centers to improve and expand the delivery of MAT substance abuse services in an integrated primary care/behavioral health model with a specific focus on treatment of opioid use disorders in underserved populations.

"HRSA's innovative investment in the delivery of medication-assisted treatment for substance use disorders affirms the importance of behavioral health to overall health," said Kana Enomoto, Acting Administrator of the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA). Addressing the opioid crisis is a top priority for the Administration and the Department. The Department is focused on three key areas: improving opioid prescribing practices, increasing the use of naloxone, and increasing access to MAT. In addition, the President has made addressing the prescription opioid abuse and heroin epidemic a top priority and issued a Presidential Memorandum last year on improving access to medication-assisted treatment (MAT) for opioid use disorders. Today's awards are an example of HHS taking every available step to expand access to MAT. Building on these efforts, the President's Budget includes a $1.1 billion initiative to help ensure that all individuals with opioid use disorders who want treatment are able to access it.

No Rate Hike This Week -April Is Still A Possibility

According to Bloomberg's Fed Probability model, Bloomberg's odds of a rate hike at this week's FOMC meeting are about 4%. It wasn't always that way. Late last year, the odds of a March 2016 hike were as high as 53%. In a way, the December meeting was the turning point, as it contributed to a wave of turmoil in commodities, foreign exchange and equities that destroyed wealth and sparked recession fears.

Several FOMC members have suggested shelving rate hikes altogether this year, however core members were careful to leave the door open to a hike even as early as this week

>In mid-February, when markets were at their ugliest, Chair Yellen acknowledged the possibility weak financial markets could affect US growth and weak commodity prices could affect US inflation. She did not offer any clues how these risks might affect her policy vote.

>Stanley Fischer, who scolded traders in early January for not expecting 3-5 hikes this year, recently told CNBC the Fed's stated goal of gradual tightening doesn't mean a specific number of rate hikes. He too refused to rule out a March hike.

>Speaking in Beijing two weeks ago, Bill Dudley acknowledged financial market trouble, but said his outlook had "not materially changed." He was less confident the Fed would hit its inflation target as the balance of risks had tilted toward lower inflation. But, by saving his outlook had not materially changed, Dudley implied he was not yet ready to give up his preferred course of action.

>A month ago, Lael Brainard warned a hard Chinese slowdown had elevated contagion risk.

She was more measured in recent comments. It appears two weeks of market calm has alleviated some of her fear.

REASON FOR HESITA-

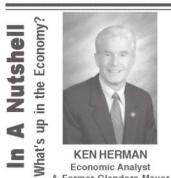

In her December press conference, Chair Yellen offered four reasons to raise rates.

1. Stable inflation expectations. (Actually, inflation expectations were not very stable in December. They had fallen for months before the meeting. But they didn't plunge until after the Fed raised rates).

2. Tight labor market. The unemployment rate was still 4.9% in December. This has not changed.

3. Continued job gains. February job growth was strong, though job quality was suspect.

4. Risk of asset bubbles. As James Bullard pointed out, the risk of asset bubbles had diminished.

St. Louis Fed President Bullard revisited these same four factors a few weeks ago, explaining two of the four no longer support an imminent rate hike.

>Inflation expectations are now clearly lower. Consumer surveys also show lower inflation expectations, causing Fed PhDs to struggle to explain how "expectations" differ from what people say they expect.

>Are asset bubbles really less likely? Bullard revealed the Fed has been concerned about two possible asset bubbles. The first in stocks, the second in high yield bonds. March 11, 2016

WHAT IF THE FED TIGHT-ENSANYWAY?

The whole point of normalizing rates in the first place was to slow job growth before the tightening job market pushes inflation through 2%. Given faster-thanexpected job growth in February coupled with another quarter of disappointingly slow productivity growth in Q4, the case for tightening is arguably stronger now than in December, as long as one ignores market data and focuses exclusively on domestic economic data.

The most convincing argument against a March hike is the 4% probability priced into markets. Given the near panic in markets at the start of this year, officials are likely to want to avoid another shock. But there is precedent for the Fed defying market expectations, especially early in the normalization process.

Greenspan defied the market in 1994. Stocks traded higher for a week or so after liftoff in early February, but stocks fell for a month before the March meeting and fell further after the FOMC decided to hike again. Nevertheless, the Fed surprised the markets with an intra-meeting rate hike on April 18. Stocks plunged, but found a bottom a few days

Greenspan defied the market again in 2004. Stocks sold off almost continuously from the day of the first hike in June until the second hike in August. From its March peak, the S&P 500 was down 8.8% on the August meeting day. Interestingly, the market bottomed two days later and closed the year at a new high.

The message was clear: As long as Greenspan was Fed Chairman, the Fed would dictate to the markets. Not the other way around. And, amazingly, Greenspan's reputation as a forecaster and policy maker was so solid, markets listened and be-

THIS FED IS DIFFERENT

Of course, stocks are down almost twice as much this time (as in 1994 or 2004) and are lower even when you compare the averages to 2015. Inflation is lower and other markets, including commodities, have been pummeled. But the primary reason the Fed chose to start tightening in December was the unemployment rate falling below 5% and a series of big job gains in the fourth quarter. Another big job gain in February coupled with a significant increase in core inflation, from 1.3% to 1.7%, will be compelling to hawks, especially since international data are less ugly in recent weeks and the ECB just kicked off another aggressive easing round.

Still, there is one more compelling reason to pause: Lack of credibility. Greenspan was able to push ahead with tightening in 1994 and 2004 in part because Fed officials did not flock to television cameras every time the markets swooned or the data disappointed. The upside of transparency is predictable central bank actions. The downside is a combination of lost credibility and misleading guidance for facesaving purposes.

The Yellen Fed is discovering the biggest risk of central bank transparency, identified by Bernanke years ago: When central bankers telegraph their forecasts and policy intentions, it exposes forecasting errors to the world, eroding credibility. Back then, transparency meant sharing a unified Fed view in FOMC statements. Now, it means often contradictory opinions from FOMC officials who debate policy in the press.

When Greenspan hiked the second time in 2004, the stock market pivoted and began to rise. Investors were convinced that if Greenspan thought the economy was strong enough to justify a rate hike then the economy was strong enough to justify a rate hike. Yellen could never pull that off. Transparency has changed the game. So, no hike this week, but almost certainly guidance suggesting a hike in April.

It doesn't look like our retirement savings are going to be enough for us to have the lifestyle we were dreaming about. We're in our early 60's. What do we do now?

Make a new plan. This will take looking at what you've still got, looking at what options you have available, making a plan, and putting that plan into action. You've taken a big step in just realizing that you've got to make the best of what you have, that bad things don't last forever, and that you need to make adjustments. Many financial professionals do not charge for their consultation. A good one will ask a lot of questions in gathering the detailed facts about your current savings, as well as about what you want your money to do for you. He/ she will let you know if you are already doing a good job of retirement planning on your own, explain your options, and tell you, openly and bluntly, what changes (some might be uncomfortable) that you need to strongly consider.

How can I withdraw money from my Roth IRA? Qualified distributions, after the initial 5-year waiting period, include: after the taxpayer reaches age 59 1/2, or in the event of a taxpayer's death, or because the taxpayer becomes disabled, or to pay for 'qualified first-time home-buyer expenses (limited to $10,000 for purchasing, building, or rebuilding a 'first' home of the taxpayer, spouse, or any descendent or ancestor of the taxpayer or spouse.)

I've received a settlement. The financial advisors I've spoken with all recommend putting the money into bonds. Is this the best thing to do? Although bonds have historically been used as a conservative investment, their yield is low, and you can lose money. I agree with the very influential advisors who are recommending indexed products (annuities and life insurance) as alternatives to bonds.

With the global economy being kind of shaky, should I be concerned?

In the U.S., it's my understanding that banks are only required to have 10-percent liquid (available to pay out upon demand) capital. Insurance companies are required to have much more capital. I know of one company that has about 80- percent liquid capital, or approx. $80 dollars for every $100. This is food for thought: whether to put your money into a bank product (CD's, bonds, mutual funds, etc.), or into a product offered by insurance companies (fixed or fixed-indexed annuities and fixed-indexed life insurance)

My wife and I are in our very early 40's. With interest rates so low, would this be a good time to take some of the equity from our home and invest in some rental properties?

Although not all-inclusive, here are some things to think about before making this decision. Cost: mortgages, taxes, insurance, upkeep, repairs, vacancies. Do you plan to be the landlords, or hire a property manager? Emergencies: liquid (easily accessible) funds, life insurance to cover expenses and/or pay off debts with the loss of income of one of you due to illness or death. Exit plan: How many years do you plan to hold these properties? Will you hold these properties in the name of a trust? Options: What other places could you invest to potentially reach your financial goals?

What Will You Do With Your In-Car Time?

With self-driving cars on the horizon promising a great experience for the passenger (yes. you are no longer a driver but a passenger!) what will that look like? Imagine yourself going down the road and you decide to spend your time surfing the Internet. You and your family are going on vacation. Since you have more than likely set this up via the Internet and your car is connected it will know this. It can then send you information on things you might like to do while there and even coupons on special events.

Some say that the self-driving car may become your delivery service. What if you want to pick up an order from a restaurant or another place of business! You might be able to arrange for your car to go all by itself! I am just imagining this...it is time for your car to come to Certified Automotive Specialists for service. You arrange an appointment and your car drives itself to our shop, we do the service and send it back home to you! How about that?

Self-driving vehicles are supposed to cut way back on accidents. They say that 90 percent of accidents are due to human error and the self-driving car will eliminate this. I do wonder about the other 10 percent...hmmm.

Now the potentially bad news...getting slammed with advertising. Yes...that has been brought up and of course all involved claim that it will not be a spamming experience but an enhancing experience. It is supposed to help us plan our day and be a user-friendly tool rather than an annoyance. We will have to wait and see.

Currently, the average driver in Glendora spends two hours in their car a day. It would be nice to use those hours to relax or to be productive. A selfdriving vehicle will certainly make that possible. Certified Automotive Specialists is here as always to make sure your vehicle is ready to go when you need it. Make St. Patrick's Day 2016 the Greenest Ever Wear your green pride and LOS ANGELES - You don't have to be Irish to celebrate St. Patrick's Day, the "greenest" day of the year. This year, Waste Management of Southern California has a few tips that will help make your St. Paddy's Day greener than ever.

"There is no shortage of ways to cut down on wastefulness," said Eloisa Orozco, spokesperson for Waste Management of Southern California. "With St. Patrick's Day fast approaching, now is the best time to start making green choices for an environmentally friendly celebration. If each of us took a few small steps to reduce the waste we produce or increase the amount of materials we recycle, we would make a significant impact on the amount of material, energy and landfill space saved."

The good news is that with a bit of creativity and a little knowhow, you can enjoy a fun, festive affair without it taking a significant toll on the environment. The following are easy ways for you to be green, both in celebration and in practice avoid pinching your wallet. Celebrate your festive spirit by opting to make your St. Patrick's Day outfit from reusable or recycled materials. You can also save money and take part in the reuse cycle by finding the perfect green style at a local used clothing store.

• Don't be a litterbug at the St. Paddy's Day parade. Many cities across the nation host St. Patrick's Day parades and spend hours cleaning up after the event. This year, make it a point to clean up after yourself, and if you see any recyclable items left behind, please put them in the proper re-

· Skip the paper invitations. Save a tree or two by sending an electronic invitation, creating an event on social media or even simply pick-up the phone and invite your friends and family.

 Wish friends and family luck by giving them a potted shamrock. These plants flourish indoors and will help keep the spirit of St. Patrick's Day alive all year · Bike, walk or carpool to the party. Walking, biking, taking a bus or picking up friends along the way to your celebration are great ways to reduce energy and save green in your wallet too.

· Decorate your St. Patrick's Day party with reusable decorations. Because this event occurs every year, consider purchasing reusable decorations, rather than those that are designed to be thrown away after one use.

· Buy recycled materials and make personalized cups. If you insist on using disposable glassware, buy the kind made from recycled or sustainable materials. Also, you can help avoid mistaken and lost cup issues and cut down on waste by having a few Sharpie pens available for people to personalize their cups.

· Try a new twist to your traditional corned beef and cabbage meal. Purchase locally grown and packaged beef, cabbage and potatoes when possible and compost all leftover cabbage and potato peels.

Sports And Mental Health: What You Should Know

by Paolo del Vecchio, MSW

For many participants, team sports are more than just a game. In fact, a growing body of research supports the idea that physical exercise is associated with decreasing the risk of depression and reducing its symp-

Participating in athletics has many benefits, such as building fitness, teamwork and self-confidence. Further, participating in sports or fitness activities with others aligns with two of the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration's (SAMHSA) major dimensions of recovery—health and community.

However, athletics can also involve risk. Throughout the seasons of professional, collegiate, high school and amateur athletics, fans keep their fingers crossed that players will make it through the season without an in-

One issue receiving a great deal of attention is the connection between concussions and depression. Numerous athletes with histories of concussion have spoken out about their depression, and this problem is not limited to professional athletes, who get paid millions of dollars to put their health on the line. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), young athletes-both male and female-suffer concussions in many different sports. One study examining data from over 30,000 adolescents found that concussions were associated with a 3.3fold increase in the risk of depression.

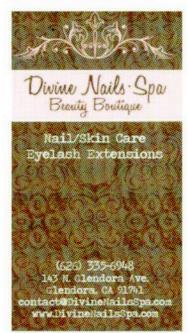

Athletes are also at risk of prescription drug misuse, which can lead to addiction and misuse of other drugs. A recent Sports IIlustrated special report introduced readers to several young athletes who had initially used prescription pain medications, then became dependent and moved on to using heroin. The article chronicled the life of one young man, a three-sport star in high school, who eventually died from a drug overdose.

Fortunately, help is available. At the high school and college level, SAMHSA supports programs like the Safe Schools/

Participating in athletics has many benefits, such as building fitness, teamwork and self-confidence.

Healthy Students and Garrett Lee Smith Suicide Prevention initiatives. Athletics programs offer their own support, but too often, athletes are unwilling to ask for help until it is too late.

By sharing their stories, athletes are helping to raise awareness that it is okay to seek help. Professional football star Brandon Marshall is an example of an athlete who has the courage to speak out publicly about his experiences with mental illness, and his foundation funds early intervention programs to help identify at-risk youth and build resilience. In 2012, SAMHSA presented Marshall, along with several other athletes, with Voice Awards for their efforts.

In addition, the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) offers a helpful publication, "Mind, Body and Sport: Understanding and Supporting Student-Athlete Mental Wellness," which includes the stories of athletes and coaches who have personally struggled with mental and substance use problems. The publication encourages coaches, athletic trainers, and teammates to be aware of problems and offer support.

However, many people don't know what to look for or how to help. That's why SAMHSA supports initiatives like The Campaign to Change Direction, which educates people about five signs of distress: withdrawal, agitation, hopelessness, decline in personal care, and change in personality. Knowing the signs means we can watch out for ourselves and for the people around us, be it our family, our friends or our team-

Working together is important, not just on the field or court, but in the game of life.

Screening For High Blood Pressure

At a checkup, often, the first thing your health care provider does is check your blood pressure—and for good reason. High blood pressure is the leading cause of death in the United States, affecting nearly one in three adults—but you can control it. High blood pressure, or hypertension, is a serious condition that increases a person's risk for heart attack, stroke, and kidney and heart failure. Often, high blood pressure has no signs or symptoms.

People at an increased risk of developing hypertension include those whose blood pressure is at the high end of the normal range, African Americans, and people who are overweight or obese. Also, people are more likely to develop high blood pressure as they get older.

Fortunately, there are many ways to manage high blood pressure and lower your risk of negative outcomes. Eating a healthy diet, losing weight, managing stress and getting more exercise are lifestyle changes that can make a big difference for someone with high blood pressure. In addition, a primary care physician may prescribe medication to lower high blood pressure.

If you are diagnosed with high blood pressure, you should talk to your doctor about treatment options and select a plan that works for you.

The U.S. Preventive Services Task Force recently reviewed the science on screening for high blood pressure and recommended such tests in adults age 18 years and older.

Having a high blood pressure reading during a doctor's exami-

It's a healthy idea to have your blood pressure checked regularly. nation does not always mean a person actually has continuous high blood pressure. A blood pressure reading can be high for other reasons, such as:

· Stress, emotion, pain, physical activity, caffeine consumption or nicotine use

 Some people have high blood pressure only in a medical setting or around medical staff, also known as "white coat hypertension"

An incorrect reading.

Unless it is clear that treatment should begin right away (because of very high blood pressure, signs of organ damage, or a diagnosis of high blood pressure caused by another medical condition), the Task Force recommends that people who have a high blood pressure reading during their examination also take their blood pressure several times outside of the doctor's office to confirm the diagnosis before starting treatment.

There are two ways to confirm high blood pressure outside of the office. Your doctor may provide a wearable machine that automatically records your blood pressure every half hour. Or, he or she may suggest you use a home blood pressure monitor to take more readings. Your doctor will then look at these numbers to confirm your high blood pressure diagnosis and see if you need to begin treatment for high blood pressure.

Anyone age 40 years and older and those who are at an increased risk for high blood pressure should be screened every year. People ages 18 to 39 years and those who do not have other risk factors should be screened every three to five years.

The U.S. Preventive Services Task Force is an independent, volunteer panel of national experts in prevention and evidencebased medicine. The Task Force makes evidence-based recommendations on primary care ser-

Azusa Unified Students Explore Future College Majors at Eighth Grade Fair

Azusa - Azusa Unified middle school students playfully dodged sparks emitted by a static electricity generator and gleefully watched as a trio of rolling robots raced down a track from memory during the fifth annual Eighth Grade Majors Fair on Feb. 26.

The two displays were among more than 20 booths presenting live demonstrations and interactive activities to students from Ellington School and Center, Foothill and Slauson middle schools as a way of sparking interest in college majors and careers involving subjects and industries such as math, kinesiology and hospitality.

"I want to be a forensic scientist or detective and the administrative justice representatives gave me more information on how to get there," Ellington School eighth-grader Alyssa Juezan-Slator, 14, said. "I also learned that it's good to be bilin-

Olive Middle School Students Honored by Internet Safety Group

Student delegation offers insightful advice on ensuring empathy and support in online interactions

BALDWIN PARK - Fifty students at Baldwin Park Unified's Olive Middle have won a "Role Reversal" Award in recognition of their Internet smarts from Safer Internet Day organizer 2016

ConnectSafely.Org. Safer Internet Day, held Feb.

9, brought together 300 students online and in person at Universal Studios Hollywood. Olive was one of five area schools on site. Nineteen schools and youth organizations from Florida to Massachusetts participated online.

The Olive students won the accolade for describing how to encourage empathy and support among peers and adults as a way of improving online experiences. In the exercise, students reversed roles with experts, giving advice rather than listening to a talk.

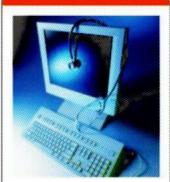

The students said people should tell their stories in a personal way, talking directly about how they handled with challenges. They said schools should post fliers about those challenges and students should share their experiences with professional writers.

"We are proud of our students for their compassionate understanding of the issues that are so important in today's world," Superintendent Froilan N. Mendoza said. "At Baldwin Park Unified, we set a high standard for student engagement with their peers - in person and online."
